How to Be a Pilgrim in the Holy Land Forgotten Books
Excerpt from Centenary Souvenir: Commemorative of the Completion of a Century by the First Presbyterian Church of Dayton, Ohio; Containing an Account of the Proceedings and the Addresses Delivered During the Celebration, December 10, 11, and 12, 1899 The celebration of the centenary of the First Presbyterian Church was probably the most interesting event in the religious history of Dayton. The devotional and historical services were of a high order, and were enjoyed by enthusiastic audiences, who were inspired and instructed. The music throughout was of rare beauty, richness, and dignity; the selections manifested a true sympathy with the spirit of the occasion and were faultlessly rendered. The singing of old hymns that had often stirred the hearts and deepened the devotion of the fathers and mothers, was a feature that excited very

This book innovatively explores the notion of koinonia for understanding the nature and function of the Church. Since the Scriptures assert that the Church is the Church of God, God's communal mode of existence is looked at namely, God who is a communion of three hypostases relating to one another in an interpenetrating koinonia of infinite love as a way of understanding the very being of the church as communion. Such a notion of koinonia, far from having anything to do with socio-political understandings, suggests that it is a foundational gift bestowed from above to the world as the solution par excellence to the impasse of isolationism. More often than not, however, such an ecclesiology of communion has not taken seriously the historical reality of the Church living within the fallen world along with its ceaseless temptations, divisions and even sins in history. In this way, it becomes apparent that a dialectic needs to be acknowledged in the notion of communion as both foundational gift from God, and yet one still to be fully realised. Accordingly, this work shows that the Church is not only as the gift of God's miraculous presence here on earth. The Church is also constantly striving to exist epiclestically until such time as it will fully experience the final consummation in God's eschatological kingdom. An examination of this double dimensionality of the Church is undertaken in order to assess if this is in line with the Scriptural witness of the ekklesia. Having established the gift-goal dialectic in the notion of koinonia in the New Testament Church, the study then traces the trajectory of this dynamic approach to koinonia in the Church's worship and authoritative structures. This promises to cast both a deeper light on, and a more realistic solution to ecclesiological problems within the life of the Church today, allowing for the Church's constant renewal.

Souvenir Edition of the St. Joseph Story Celebrating the Dedication of the Edian D. Markham Memorial Building and Parsonage of St. Joseph A. M. E. Church

Excerpt from A Souvenir of the Conant Memorial Church: Its Inception, Construction, and Dedication; With Illustrations When this book was commenced I had no thought beyond making a small souvenir of the dedication of the Conant Memorial Church; but as I worked at the compilation, the history of the church in Dudley seemed as interesting to me as the record of my ancestors; and as building the church and trying to provide for the preaching of the Gospel was practically a part of the town's business in the time of those early settlers, it is not easy to say much about them and have their work not well understood. I judged also that the historical sermon of Rev. Mr. Francis would be acceptable, even if seasoned slightly with the religious dogmas of that day, inasmuch as it gives a great deal of the early history of the locality in a very clear and concise manner. In the history of the first church, I have made copies from the old records of the town as the best form in which to preserve it. I have been unable to find any record of the action of the Church in reference to the building of the edifice destroyed in 1890, but suppose that it was built largely by a committee of the town.
